Participants will have the opportunity to focus on diagnostic versus screening mammography, breast MRI, or percutaneous procedures including biopsies. The breast imaging minicourse is offered with a choice of 1 or 2 weeks in the division of Breast Imaging, Department of Radiology, Brigham and Women's Hospital.

Course Description

Students will be divided into groups of 10-15 members to allow for ample opportunity for 1-on-1 teaching. In addition, to the breast imaging faculty, breast imaging fellows will observe the entire gamut of image-guided interventional breast procedures performed.

Students will learn about the use of all imaging modalities, including mammography, breast ultrasound, and breast MRI. They will participate in a variety of breast imaging procedures performed using all imaging modalities, including stereotactic biopsy, ultrasound-guided biopsy, and MRI-guided biopsy. They will attend the daily morning case conference, 2 weekly multidisciplinary breast conferences including a tumor board, 2 weekly multidisciplinary breast conferences including a tumor board, 2 weekly multidisciplinary breast conferences including a tumor board, and 2 weekly multidisciplinary breast conferences including a tumor board.

Participants will have the opportunity to focus on diagnostic versus screening mammography, breast MRI, or percutaneous procedures including biopsies, based on their needs and section activities.
